

Debian-User: Re: Kernel Oops (was Re: Lots of scary segfaults)

Re: Kernel Oops (was Re: Lots of scary segfaults)

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/Debian/2003-09/5253.html>

From: Stephen Patterson (s.patterson_at_freeuk.com)

Date: 09/30/03

Date: 30 Sep 2003 19:44:11 GMT
To: debian-user@lists.debian.org

On Tue, 30 Sep 2003 04:40:09 +0200, csj wrote:

- > Try compiling the linux kernel X times. In my experience at some
- > point bad memory will cause a kernel compile to fail (of course a
- > bad CPU would casue it to fail much faster, but CPU's are
- > probably the hardest part of your system)

That, or install something with apt. This usually barfs when my laptop has got into segfaulting mood.

--

Stephen Patterson <http://patter.mine.nu/>
steveSPAM@patter.mine.nu remove SPAM to reply
Linux Counter No: 142831 GPG Public key: 252B8B37
Last one down the pub's an MCSE

--

To UNSUBSCRIBE, email to debian-user-request@lists.debian.org with a subject of "unsubscribe". Trouble? Contact listmaster@lists.debian.org