

Debian-User: Re: "Yahoo briefcase"-like app?

Re: "Yahoo briefcase"-like app?

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/Debian/2004-03/1525.html>

From: Vineet Kumar (vineet_at_doorstop.net)

Date: 03/09/04

To: debian-user@lists.debian.org

Date: Tue, 09 Mar 2004 12:27:21 -0800

I'd like to thank everyone for their suggestions. It looks like weblefm is closest to the functionality I was describing (though I might end up setting up a wiki anyway if the person I'm setting this up for wants a "forum"-type-thing as well.

I've set up DAV before; it's inappropriate for this particular usage just because of client-side UI. (Most web browsers don't include PUT functionality). I know there are generally "web folders" or somesuch available on many platforms, but I wanted something more universal, heopfully simple web forms. Weeble seems to fit the bill pretty well. (I've only looked at the web site so far; I haven't installed it yet.)

Of course it's possible to write my own cgi with a POST form for uploads and some other simple forms for move, rename, delete, etc., but I thought my time would be better spent not reinventing the wheel if possible.

Again, thanks for all of your suggestions.

good times,
Vineet

--

To UNSUBSCRIBE, email to debian-user-request@lists.debian.org with a subject of "unsubscribe". Trouble? Contact listmaster@lists.debian.org

- application/pgp-signature attachment: stored

Re: "Yahoo briefcase"-like app?