

Re: Gnome fonts and themes

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/Debian/2004-06/3409.html>

From: David Mesler (magik_at_erols.com)

Date: 06/23/04

To: debian-user@lists.debian.org

Date: Wed, 23 Jun 2004 16:45:07 -0400

It's not necessary to pass options to gnome-settings-daemon. I just run it as "gnome-settings-daemon &" and it works fine.

And yes, anyone not using gnome-session should start it up manually if you ever want to adjust your gtk2 apps. It's important to note that running gnome-settings-daemon supersedes your .gtkrc-2.0 file. You should start using gnome-font-properties and gnome-theme-manager to change anything and just delete that file to avoid inconsistencies.

--

To UNSUBSCRIBE, email to debian-user-REQUEST@lists.debian.org with a subject of "unsubscribe". Trouble? Contact listmaster@lists.debian.org