Hello,

I recently installed the testing Debian (Sarge) on Microsoft Virtual PC 2004. I am new to linux and am still poking around.

I installed a base system and I installed x-window-system and gnome by using the 'apt-get install ...'. When I startx, the display is VERY wide and unviewable. I think it may have something to do with the settings that I used when setting up x. Can anyone help? Thanks A LOT. I would really like this to work because Debian has been my fave distro that I've tried. Thanks!

-Benny
