

Ether-what? Where is the coming from?

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/Debian/2004-10/3582.html>

---

From: Robert Tilley (tilleyrw_at_cfl.rr.com)

Date: 10/31/04

To: debian-user@lists.debian.org

Date: Sun, 31 Oct 2004 17:55:53 -0500

GKrellm indicates that something is pumping data through my ethernet pipe.
How can I discover the culprit?

This is affecting my CPU usage...

Bob

--

WE'RE GOING TO THROW THE MX AWAY AFTER WE BUILD IT. The MX is really [Don't tell anybody!] just a "bargaining chip" in the nuclear-arms-reduction talks with the Russians. See, we have a problem with the Russians. They look at our leaders and they see, for example, George Bush, who is really a fine and brave man but who happens to have this unfortunate physical characteristic whereby when he talks he sounds as though he just inhaled a helium party balloon. If he ever becomes President, the Russians will deliberately create nuclear crises just so they can gather around the Hot Line with refreshments and listen to George talk.

-- Dave Barry, "At Last, the Ultimate Deterrent Against Political Fallout"

--

To UNSUBSCRIBE, email to debian-user-REQUEST@lists.debian.org with a subject of "unsubscribe". Trouble? Contact listmaster@lists.debian.org