No, AFAIK its just the rendering engine. There is a different utility for katakanji etc input processing, remapping the keyboard etc, but I don't recall the name of it, sorry.

But with canna running, emails & web pages using those character sets generally display just fine. Being a font junkie, I've spent the last 6 years collecting fonts, and the list that firefox opens in the prefs is probably 2 to 3 screens high, and includes lots of them that I couldn't pronounce with a gun to my head.

I suspect that if you install the appropriate i8n language packs, you will get enough of those fonts to be functional.

Good luck!

Cheers, Gene

People having trouble with vz bouncing email to me should add the word 'online' between the 'verizon', and the dot which bypasses vz's stupid bounce rules. I do use spamassassin too. :-)
