

Re: different resolution on notebook LCD and VGA

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/Debian/2006-01/msg03623.html>

- From: "Josep Serrano" <pep.serrano@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Tue, 31 Jan 2006 17:08:58 +0100 (CET)
-

Hello

I have a laptop with widescreen LCD and I didn't manage to have a dual head configuration for both widescreen and external monitor at the same time.

I have to different xorg configuration files and a set of scripts which can switch between configurations and restart my X server.

New ideas are welcome.

Regards,
Josep SERRANO.

- > maybe this is nonsense... is it possible to run x windows with
- > different resolution on the notebook LCD and different on the VGA out at
- > the same time? ideally i'd like to have the output 1024x768 on the LCD
- > and 1280x1024 sent to the VGA output (i want to connect it to another
- > LCD that has this resolution – 1024x768 indeed looks ugly on it...)
- >

—
To UNSUBSCRIBE, email to debian-user-REQUEST@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx with a subject of "unsubscribe". Trouble? Contact listmaster@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

- References:
 - ◆ different resolution on notebook LCD and VGA
 - ◇ From: Lubos Vrbka
- Prev by Date: Re: different resolution on notebook LCD and VGA
- Next by Date: Re: different resolution on notebook LCD and VGA
- Previous by thread: Re: different resolution on notebook LCD and VGA
- Next by thread: Re: vsftpd Extended Passive Mode problem
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread