

Why aren't syslog, auth.log, etc. rotated by logrotate?

Why aren't syslog, auth.log, etc. rotated by logrotate?

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/Debian/2006-02/msg03333.html>

- From: Adam Rosi-Kessel <adam@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Tue, 28 Feb 2006 16:24:21 -0500
-

Does anyone know why syslog, auth.log, and other similar system log files are each rotated by their own separate cron job rather by logrotate? Is there any reason not to have logrotate handle all of those log files?

—

Adam Rosi-Kessel
<http://adam.rosi-kessel.org>

Attachment: signature.asc

Description: OpenPGP digital signature