I now have a very shrunken aol screen. Since I often get a message that aol is removing some of the art files, I think that I have too much space being used up by art files. Can I, and should I attempt to remove them?

You should probably contact AOL's support. While the people on this mailing list are very helpful, I doubt many of them have much knowledge of AOL as it does not support Debian/GNU Linux.

I for one have never used AOL.

Good luck,
