

Re: Looking for music player software

Re: Looking for music player software

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/Debian/2006-12/msg03077.html>

- From: Baz <bazciscor@xxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sat, 30 Dec 2006 19:56:10 -0800
-

On 12/30/06, Roberto C. Sanchez <roberto@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

On Sat, Dec 30, 2006 at 06:52:41PM -0800, Baz wrote:

>
> You're a Debian developer – and, don't know music players? Nevertheless, I > like VLC...

>
Wow. That's a bit harsh. Yes, he is a Debian developer. Apparently, his interests [0] include communication protocols, documentation and Emacs. There are enough Debian packages out there so that no one developer is familiar with them all, or even knows about them all.

Regards,

–Roberto

[0]
<http://qa.debian.org/developer.php?login=debacle%40debian.org&comaint=yes>

—
Roberto C. Sanchez
<http://people.connexer.com/~roberto>
<http://www.connexer.com>

-----BEGIN PGP SIGNATURE----- Version: GnuPG v1.4.1 (GNU/Linux)

iD8DBQFFlyef5SXWIKfIIGQRAIYHAJ9FexgJ/gaefF5D9ieRYDCS9QEw7ACaAs4z
SDfhhSfU8ev5H7SzW4zrEf4=
=nuA4
-----END PGP SIGNATURE-----

I apologize if that sounded harsh.

Re: Looking for music player software

I hold Debian developers in high regard – and, was a bit incredulous that he wasn't aware of Debian's own offerings, especially such a common application group as music players.

In my defense, there are many, many poseurs in cyber-space – it was testing of sort. I did answer his query though with what I believe is a very able player.

Again, no offense was intended.

Happy holidays,
Sebastian

—

"...heart and soul...one will burn."
– Joy Division