you know, I was thinking that same thing... as I work my way down the list of mails this morning, I couldn't recall what the heck "same problem" was about. This whole changing the subject thing is really frustrating. I'm thinking of just blackholing anything from debianhelp.org. ugh.

To be fair (as I pointed out in other thread), it's not so much the idea of a forum gateway that's bad, just debianhelp's poor implementation (IMHO).

I agree. Getting people the help they need is a good thing. But getting them help in a mis-guided way may be more damaging in the longrun.
