Hi list !

I am running Etch on a quite old Thinkpad laptop which had not been connected to internet for over two weeks. Before this I had experienced no problems using apt-get update. When I tried it yesterday night, here is what I got :

When I manually try to download the Packages.gz file,

Then, using dpkg --update-avail, I update the dpkg database, but apt-get upgrade tells me that nothing needs to be updated even though some packets do. Here is the output of dpkg --status openoffice.org-calc :

Description: OpenOffice.org office suite - spreadsheet

[apt-get] : failing update

[apt-get] : failing update

OpenOffice.org is a full-featured office productivity suite that provides a near drop-in replacement for Microsoft(R) Office.

This package contains the spreadsheet component for OpenOffice.org.

For latest news on OpenOffice.org in Debian, see <http://openoffice.debian.net> apt-cache show openoffice.org-calc shows the same thing : it doesn't know about the etch2 version.

I also noticed an inconsistency in the packages database : vim which was install was not said to be so. Nevertheless, I managed to get the last version.

If that can help, here is the result of strace output in strace apt-get update :
