

Re: want to speed up laptop

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/Debian/2008-03/msg02513.html>

- From: paragasu <paragasu@xxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 31 Mar 2008 11:21:46 +0800
-

I'm using xfce4 now. It seems to me it's also getting slower (been using for a long time now), I'm wondering if there's any tools to analyze the system performance?

Thanks.

well, i wonder why GTK2 is slow. i never try KDE. but compare GTK and QTK which one more suitable for old computer?

i will try openbox and icewm. i just wondering, since most of the GNOME program written in GTK. it still use GTK when i run the program. so, not much points to change to IceWM or OpenBOX.