AFAIK,
you can delete all files in $HOME directory. especially the hidden files.
the worst you will get is you lost some setting of the program. But you can login
just fine.

One has to be careful. For example, Kmail (from KDE) uses .kde to store all the mail. If some one deletes the .kde directory thinking that it is just a bunch of rc files they would be in for a nice surprise.

Same goes for .sylpheed .sylpheed-claws and probably other mail clients.
