

Finding CPU Usage of A Process

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/Debian/2008-07/msg00313.html>

- From: Volkan YAZICI <yazicivo@xxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Fri, 04 Jul 2008 14:21:15 +0300
-

Hi,

What's the reason behind the difference in CPU usage outputs of the commands "ps -oe pcpu,args | grep [q]emu" and "top -b -n 1 | grep qemu". OTOH, while "top" output is accurate, "ps" output is always quite low. And what are my alternatives over above commands to find the CPU usage of a specific process from command line?

Regards.

—

To UNSUBSCRIBE, email to debian-user-REQUEST@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx with a subject of "unsubscribe". Trouble? Contact listmaster@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx