Hello everybody,

My aim is to create a MythTV box based on an Asus Pundit (Barebone), a Hauppauge PVR-350 and an Hauppauge WinTV (Nicam Stereo).

I just received my Asus Pundit and the design is really great... And as I had some free time, why not start to put together all the components to build a myhtv box but only with the WinTV as I waiting some spare cash to buy the PVR-350.

Consequently, as soon as I came back home I started to install the RAM, the processor, etc... Everything went ok!

But the trouble started to arise in trying to install the WinTV PCI card :(

The card was not able to fit in the allocated space... I just decided to tried why another one (also old) a Creative Live 1024! and...

This one is also not able to fit in!!!! (See the attached pics)

In fact, there is a part on the board with is bigger than the metal part of the card (N.B.: I attached 2 pics to explain, 1: the WinTv card; 2: the Creative One) I never had any problems with a normal tower... but as you can see on the pics, the red part is the annoying one!

Consquently, I started to wonder one thing, will the PVR-350 fit into my barebone??? That's why I would like to get feedbacks from you!

Is one of you using a Asus Barebone and an hauppauge PVR 350? Did you manage to make it fit in???

Or if you have a PVR 350, does it has the same RED part being bigger than the normal PCI size... If you have a digital camera could you take a pic of it?

Tanks in advance

Regards,

Coume
