I would like to recommend to look into EBLite, which is still in development, but very interesting, because it can handle MSN, ICQ, AIM, Yahoo, Jabber and it consists of two parts: a core, which handles all protocols, etc and GUI's from which you can choose. Currently they have a QT gui available and they are developing Neurses, command-line, and several WAP GUI's.

Look into it: <http://www.everybuddy.com> and link to the EBLite page.
