Actually there is a better way to filter for lists, especially those that don't have the list email address in the "sender" field, nor the list name in the subject field: use the "mailing list" field and set it to the list name, ie "fedora-list". It helps sort those obscure lists that don't conform to the regular rules.

BTW: Note to evolution developers: it would be nice if one could filter by the "reply to" field.

BTW: I never would have replied to this if I had seen it in the digest. Now that I am viewing individual posts as emails, I'll contribute more.
