Dear people,

I had RealPlayer installed, running nicely, included in KDE and Gnome menus, and when I said Open to an MP3 file it would invoke RP and play it. Recently ran up2date and RealPlayer disappeared from menus, desktop and also disappeared from whatever list tells OS what to do with an MP3 type of file—it now opens Helix player that pops up error message saying I should use RealPlayer.

Found realplayer files several places on disk, tried to reinstall. But, it said that RP was already installed and then stopped. I'd be happy to un-install then reinstall if I knew how. Wouldn't mind fixing Helix so it would do the job. Just want to play my MP3s. Please tell me how.

Thanks,

Sam
