I have run unbuntu 6.06 LTS version..the live cd in similar machine which has the same configurations as yours. Didn't have any problems. install it properly and there wont be any problems. I don't know whether they have a 64 bit version.

Hi everybody,

Recently i tried to install Redhat ELv4 in my system. But i failed to do so, It gave a message that "NO HARD DRIVE IDENTIFIED".

My requirement is to use some development tools like JAVA, ORACLE 10g, and LANGUAGES LIKE C, C++... And i found Fedora is the version similar to ELv4 and more for a developing purpose. If it is so please suggest me that so that i can install it in my system.

My system configuration is:
Asus K8s MX mother board,
AMD 2800+ 64 bit processor,
Segate 80 gb SATA harddisk,
256 RAM.

Waiting for response.....
