Not discounting the possibility of software issues, I would be suspicious of the keyboard, particularly if you attribute a problem to a group of keys, like that. Some are far worse than others.

I am fearing that. It is a German keyboard, which would be difficult to get on this side of the 'Teich' (Pond). The curious thing is that a guy on fedoraforum mentioned the same problem about 2 weeks ago.

Hook up any old alternative and see if that set of characters works or not. If it works and the other keyboard doesn't – maybe NewEgg or one of its competitors could provide a German keyboard. Shipping might take a long time or be expensive, though.
