Around 12:13am on Saturday, June 30, 2007 (UK time), Karl Larsen scrawled:

The reason is because the Grub info says you can, and I want something to use if Grub is not able to work off the hard drive like it doesn't run anymore :-)
I can then log into another account on another hard drive.

OK. When I have had problems losing grub on the hard drive (when MS Windows overwrote it), I just reinstalled grub and was able to boot back into Linux. Instructions can be found here:

A: Because it messes up the order in which people normally read text.
Q: Why is top-posting a bad thing?
