Ok, I have googled around for the last 4 hours or so looking for the way to modify the mythbackend init script to work on fedora7.

I have found numerous posts indicating that the stock script does not work on redhat/fedora, but I have not been able to find any indication of what I need to do to change it so that it will work.

Can somebody point me to a place to fix this, or if someone has one that works please email it to me. Off list will be fine.

Thanks in advance for any assistance.
