Karl – try these commands, no need to browse livna's web page

rpm -ivh http://rpm.livna.org/livna-release-8.rpm
rpm --import /etc/pki/rpm-gpg/RPM-GPG-KEY-livna

yum install kmod-vidia

good luck.

Thanks yes those worked just fine. Clear and easy to read language.
This makes rday furious!

Ridiculous. The first command has been posted before. The second command, manually importing the GPG key, is not needed because Yum does that automatically as soon as you install from that repo. And the third line, the yum command, is the same as at:

Re: F8 is a problem

Yes. We've seen this commands lots of times.
Experienced users may know them by heart.
But Karl is learning; we all were newbies once and a little clear help does not hurt anyone... my hands did not hurt at all when I typed those commands.

On another note I cannot see the benefit of antagonizing Karl indefinitely.
What's
the point? is it some form of entertainment?
