Since I yesterday installed cups 1.2.12 I have been unable to print correctly on my HP LaserJet 2200d. It simply refuses to print portrait everything comes out in landscape format. I suspect it is a bug or could it be me who has forgotten something?

You should probably say how you're trying to do that, and what with.

Some people try forcing the printer to print the wrong way via the printer configuration, rather than selecting the portrait printing option in the application that they're printing from. That's not the way to do it.

Don't send private replies to my address, the mailbox is ignored. I read messages from the public lists.
