

Re: [Usability] Saving to open Nautilus windows

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/GNOME/2006-01/msg00097.html>

- From: Calum Benson <Calum.Benson@xxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 12 Jan 2006 18:01:24 +0000
-

On Tue, 2006-01-03 at 17:14 +0100, Sven Jaborek wrote:
> Am Dienstag, den 03.01.2006, 13:13 +0000 schrieb Phil Bull:
>> Hmm, this might seem a little strange to the user (dragging an action,
>> 'save', into nautilus rather than a document). Maybe better to drag the >> document's icon from somewhere?
>
> <http://poweroftwo.de/insaneidea.jpg>
> I feel everybody staring at me ;-)

FWIW, this is exactly what Sun's OpenWindows desktop did over a decade ago :)

Cheeri,
Calum.

--

CALUM BENSON, Usability Engineer Sun Microsystems Ireland
<mailto:calum.benson@xxxxxxx> Java Desktop System Group
<http://ie.sun.com> +353 1 819 9771

Any opinions are personal and not necessarily those of Sun Microsystems

Usability mailing list
Usability@xxxxxxxxxx
<http://mail.gnome.org/mailman/listinfo/usability>

- Prev by Date: [Re: \[Usability\] Reasoning behind default panel setup?](#)
- Next by Date: [Re: \[Usability\] Saving to open Nautilus windows](#)
- Previous by thread: [Re: \[Usability\] The future of gup in developer and bugzilla](#)
- Next by thread: [Re: \[Usability\] Saving to open Nautilus windows](#)
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread