

[Usability] "Finish" vs. "Close" in gnome-control-center dialogs

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/GNOME/2006-03/msg00242.html>

- From: Raphael Bosshard <whistler@xxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sun, 19 Mar 2006 11:49:36 +0100
-

Hello there, can someone of you usability-gurus take a look at http://bugzilla.gnome.org/show_bug.cgi?id=334947 and voice an opinion?

The bug is about "Close" and a close-icon-button vs. a "Finish" and an ok-icon-button. I actually don't care which one gets adopted, but it should be consistent throughout the desktop and I guess you guys know more about that kind of things than I do. So before I file a bug against all other capplets, maybe you can take a look.

Thanks!

Raphael Bosshard

Usability mailing list
Usability@xxxxxxxx
<http://mail.gnome.org/mailman/listinfo/usability>