

Re: From KDE to GNOME. Experiences, suggestions and comments

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/GNOME/2006-04/msg00045.html>

- From: Andrzej Mendel <kelner@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sun, 16 Apr 2006 16:52:44 +0000 (UTC)
-

Mikus Grinbergs <mikus@bga.com> writes:

On Sun, 16 Apr 2006 10:42:00 +0300 Janne Ojaniemi <janne.ojaniemi@nbl.fi>

wrote:

Well, again, CTRL+T opens a new tab; CTRL+W closes it.

I know that, but I frequently surf the web without touching the keyboard at all. I have bunch of bookmarks that I would like to open (note: not ALL of them). So I need to open a new tab, and open the bookmark in that tab, without touching the keyboard.

At least in Firefox, one can "customize" the toolbar --- e.g., by adding a 'new tab' icon to it.

mikus

You can do the same in Epiphany. Right click on a toolbar -> customize toolbar. It works in the same manner as Firefox does.

gnome-list mailing list
gnome-list@xxxxxxxxxx
<http://mail.gnome.org/mailman/listinfo/gnome-list>