

Re: What did I do to my theme?

Re: What did I do to my theme?

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/GNOME/2006-07/msg00037.html>

- From: Magnus Therning <magnus@xxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 24 Jul 2006 23:11:54 +0100
-

On Mon, Jul 24, 2006 at 17:21:39 -0400, Robert Moskowitz wrote:

Thanks to a quirky mouse pad, some changes were made to my theme.

I actually like them!

But how do I find out what is being used?

When I go th Preferences > Theme, a 'Custom Theme' is at the top of the list and is highlighted.

When I go to details, for Controls and Window Boarder I have Bluecurve and for Icons, Flat-Blue.

Is this then my 'running theme'? Is there any other theme setting buried somewhere else?

Yes, that's basically it :-)

There is one part that I personally think should be part of a theme, but doesn't seem to be at the moment--mouse pointer settings. AFAIK that can only be changed using GConf.

/M

--

Magnus Therning (OpenPGP: 0xAB4DFBA4)
magnus@xxxxxxxxxxxxx Jabber: magnus.therning@xxxxxxxxxx
<http://therning.org/magnus>

Software is not manufactured, it is something you write and publish. Keep Europe free from software patents, we do not want censorship by patent law on written works.

For a successful technology, reality must take precedence over public relations, for nature cannot be fooled.

-- R.P. Feynman

Re: What did I do to my theme?

Re: What did I do to my theme?

Attachment: pgpKSh5uheFIq.pgp

Description: PGP signature

gnome-list mailing list
gnome-list@xxxxxxxxx
<http://mail.gnome.org/mailman/listinfo/gnome-list>

Re: What did I do to my theme?