

Re: How to change the default directory for bluetooth file transfers?

Re: How to change the default directory for bluetooth file transfers?

---

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/GNOME/2007-04/msg00028.html>

---

- From: Rogue <roguez@xxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Thu, 19 Apr 2007 01:25:18 +0530
-

Ok, I was too quick on firing my mail, I found out the answers after a little more deeper search:
<http://lists.usefulinc.com/pipermail/gnome-bluetooth/2006-June/001164.html>

But shouldn't this option be made available via the Bluetooth preferences??? Makes more sense to be made available there.

later,
Rogue

Rogue wrote:

Hi,

Not sure if this is the right list, but I was unable to get any conclusive search results on this one. When I transfer data from my mobile device, I would like to move the data into a folder other than the home directory. I believe this would be a configurable option, but I am unable to find out where! Any help on this would be great.

thanks,
Rogue

---

gnome-list mailing list
gnome-list@xxxxxxxx
<http://mail.gnome.org/mailman/listinfo/gnome-list>