Hi;

Only the Bouncing Cow screensaver will do. Used to be able to set the speed of the bouncing. It is currently far too fast. No one would believe that the cow(s) is using a trampoline. It must be slowed down.

Curious, are you using gnome-screensaver or xscreensaver ?

afaik, gnome-screensaver does not provide a dialog to configure screensaver options. These option are part of a desktop file saved under /usr/share/applications/screensavers/, and this desktop file would have to be edited .

$ rpm -ql bouncing_cow_package |grep desktop

How ??
