Hello there,

I'm sorry if I may seem a bit arrogant – coming here to ask of you to make gnome work my way – but I think Gnome needs a simple feature: to have the possibility to be warned when I'm about to shutdown or logout from the system.

A solution would be, when the shutdown/suspend/whatever appeared, there would be, side-by-side, a little table with the open applications, just to show the user he hasn't closed them yet.

This would prevent shutting down my laptop while I was downloading something with Deluge or editing a document with Abiword hence not losing any work.

Thank you all for a wonderful Gnome:) _____
