

RE: HP Deskjet shared on Samba, Windows users denied access

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/RedHat/2003-08/2362.html>

From: Rodolfo J. Paiz (rpaiz_at_simpaticus.com)

Date: 08/22/03

To: redhat-list@redhat.com

Date: Fri, 22 Aug 2003 11:18:19 -0600

At 8/22/2003 11:38 -0500, you wrote:

>Late to the thread but be careful with which windows you are running XP >home for instance cannot IIRC log into, join or whatever it is called, a >domain.

Having read the docs...I don't want a domain. I mean, come on: I have `_two_` computers here, reaching `_one_` server, and wanting to print; there is really no way in hell that this can require something as onerous, ancient, top-heavy, and inflexible as an MS domain. Yuck!

I'll try some other stuff tonight and post back later; two or three people have written off-list with what looks like good advice.

--

Rodolfo J. Paiz
rpaiz@simpaticus.com

--

redhat-list mailing list
unsubscribe <mailto:redhat-list-request@redhat.com?subject=unsubscribe> <https://www.redhat.com/mailman/listinfo/redhat-list>