

RedHat: Re: Is there a way for Samba to authenticate via PAM?

Re: Is there a way for Samba to authenticate via PAM?

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/RedHat/2003-09/2527.html>

From: Anthony E. Greene (agreene_at_pobox.com)

Date: 09/22/03

To: redhat-list@redhat.com

Date: Mon, 22 Sep 2003 07:34:18 -0400

On 20-Sep-2003/16:01 -0600, "Rodolfo J. Paiz" <rpaiz@simpaticus.com> wrote:

>

>So the general concensus seems to be that no, there is no way for Samba to >authenticate via PAM to the /etc/passwd file of system users. Odd, that...

Not quite. You can use the /etc/passwd database, but then you'd have to enable plaintext passwords on your Winboxes. That has not been the default since the early Win98 days, and I advise against it.

Tony

--

Anthony E. Greene <<mailto:Anthony%20E.%20Greene%20%3Cagreene@pobox.com%3E>>

OpenPGP Key: 0x6C94239D/7B3D BD7D 7D91 1B44 BA26 C484 A42A 60DD 6C94 239D

AOL/Yahoo Messenger: TonyG05 HomePage: <<http://www.pobox.com/~agreene/>>

Linux. The choice of a GNU generation <<http://www.linux.org/>>

--

redhat-list mailing list

unsubscribe <mailto:redhat-list-request@redhat.com?subject=unsubscribe>

<https://www.redhat.com/mailman/listinfo/redhat-list>