

RedHat: Re: CD-RW/DVD-ROM doesn't play nicely with Linux (or at least RH9)

Re: CD-RW/DVD-ROM doesn't play nicely with Linux (or at least RH9)

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/RedHat/2004-03/0859.html>

From: Earl Eiland (eee_at_nmt.edu)

Date: 03/19/04

To: General Red Hat Linux discussion list <redhat-list@redhat.com>

Date: Fri, 19 Mar 2004 15:39:43 -0700

Mondoarchive is a freely available linux backup program. In addition to backing up specified directories, it makes a boot disk as well.

I can make a usable CD-RW boot disk using mindi (the boot disk portion of mondoarchive), but cannot boot from the backup CD-RW disk set I make with mondoarchive. A mondoarchive backup disk set written to CD-R's works just fine.

Earl

On Fri, 2004-03-19 at 15:26, Vidiot wrote:

> > The problem seems to be specific to writing mondoarchive backups. I can > > write and read a (200+ Mb) tar file of my home directory without any > > problem...

>

> Please explain your definition of mondoarchive backups.

>

> MB

> --

> e-mail: vidiot@vidiot.com /~\ The ASCII

> \ / Ribbon Campaign

> [So it's true, scythe matters. Willow 5/12/03] X Against

> Visit - URL: <http://vidiot.com/> \ HTML Email

>

--

redhat-list mailing list

unsubscribe <mailto:redhat-list-request@redhat.com?subject=unsubscribe>

<https://www.redhat.com/mailman/listinfo/redhat-list>