

Re: Configuring Red Hat to use Active Directory (RADIUS or LDAP)

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/RedHat/2005-06/0182.html>

From: Ian Mortimer (ian_at_physics.uq.edu.au)

Date: 06/08/05

To: General Red Hat Linux discussion list <redhat-list@redhat.com>

Date: Wed, 08 Jun 2005 14:35:04 +1000

On Tue, 2005-06-07 at 23:38 -0400, Patricio Bruna V wrote:

> > We're using pam and kerberos to authenticate against active directory.
> > Been working without problems for many months now on redhat and fedora > > systems.
>
> did you need "windows services for unix"?

Not for authentication.

If you just want your linux boxes to authenticate against active directory you can use authconfig and point it at the active directory kerberos server.

--

Ian

--

redhat-list mailing list

unsubscribe <mailto:redhat-list-request@redhat.com?subject=unsubscribe>

<https://www.redhat.com/mailman/listinfo/redhat-list>