

Re: Re Help with ES v3 Raid

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/RedHat/2006-01/msg00402.html>

- From: Marc Leveille <marc.levaille@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 30 Jan 2006 12:01:20 -0500
-

I looked into this and cannot find raidtab config file. All I could find when running whereis raidtab was /usr/share/man/man5/raidtab.5.gz

Do I need to install extra packages for this? I looked in the add/remove packages but cannot find anything relevant unless it is under Development tools or Kernel Development.

thanks

Marc

On Fri, 2006-01-27 at 14:15 -0700, Eric Sisler wrote:

> On Fri, 2006-01-27 at 13:47, Marc Leveille wrote:

>

>> I followed your advice and was able to make a file system on /dev/md0. I

>> enter this entry in fstab

>> /dev/md0 /home/apps ext3 defaults 1 2

>>

>> I tried ext2 and ext3 and got the same error after re-booting.this >> happens when Checking file system runs

>> " The superblock could not be read or does not describe a valid ext2 >> file system/.

>>

>> the odd thing is that as soon as I create the file system on /dev/md0, I >> can mount it using mount -t ext3 /dev/md0 /home/apps. I can go in and >> see the lost and found folder. it only fails after a re-boot. Also if I >> remove the mdo entry in fstab, reboot and try mounting it manually, it

>> now fails (invalid file system)

>

> Others have suggested the /etc/mdmadm.conf file, which may help.

> However, if you are running a 2.4.x kernel you may have better luck with > and /etc/raidtab config file. Recent experiences here show that the

> 2.4.x kernel series has a startup script for /etc/raidtab but not

> /etc/mdmadm.conf. The 2.4.x kernels use older commands that are part of > the raidtools package. Newer 2.6.x kernels use newer commands like > mdadm. Both can be used the manipulate software RAID arrays, but again

> I don't think 2.4.x kernels include a startup scripts for mdmadm and the > associated configuration file.

>

> -Eric
>
> --
>
> Eric Sisler <esisler@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
> Library Applications Specialist
> Westminster Public Library
> Westminster, CO USA
>
> Linux – Don't fear the Penguin.
> Want to know what we use Linux for?
> Visit <http://wallace.westminster.lib.co.us/linux>
>

--
redhat-list mailing list
unsubscribe <mailto:redhat-list-request@xxxxxxxxxx?subject=unsubscribe>
<https://www.redhat.com/mailman/listinfo/redhat-list>

• Follow-Ups:

- ◆ Re: Re Help with ES v3 Raid
◇ From: Eric Sisler

• References:

- ◆ Re Help with ES v3 Raid
◇ From: Frank DiPrete
- ◆ Re: Re Help with ES v3 Raid
◇ From: Marc Leveille
- ◆ Re: Re Help with ES v3 Raid
◇ From: Eric Sisler

- Prev by Date: Re: NFS access failed error 5 \(RPC: Timed out\)
- Next by Date: RE: Duplicate Echo Replies with Channel Bonding
- Previous by thread: Re: Re Help with ES v3 Raid
- Next by thread: Re: Re Help with ES v3 Raid
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread