What was the exact message ya were receivin....??

how about going with perl -MCPAN -e shell :)
before starting off..FIRST do the MCPAN update itself...

Finally...

Is your SELinux Active | Warn | Diasble ?

The OS type/information would be markedly handy here as would qualifying what perl version you actually have

[root@wibble steve]# rpm -q perl
perl-5.8.5-24.RHEL4

if you are running perl that is bundled with redhat (assuming you are running RHEL[34] you only need to type "up2date perl-suidperl", if not then good luck.
