

Normal to have 14 httpd processes?

Normal to have 14 httpd processes?

---

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/RedHat/2006-06/msg00316.html>

---

- From: "Chris W. Parker" <cparker@xxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Wed, 28 Jun 2006 16:37:06 -0700
-

Hello,

I just noticed that I've got 14 httpd processes all using about ~23 MB of virtual memory. One of the services is owned by root and the other 13 are owned by apache. Our site is by no means high traffic. In fact, it's very low traffic. And on top of that the load average is currently at 0.00.

Normal? Abnormal?

Thanks,
Chris.

--

redhat-list mailing list
unsubscribe <mailto:redhat-list-request@xxxxxxxxxxx?subject=unsubscribe>
<https://www.redhat.com/mailman/listinfo/redhat-list>