Re: Problem Booting redhat machine

Friday when they where powered off will not come back up. The machines power, disk and network are all fine but when i power the machine up i do not get anything appear on the screen at all , i have tried two different monitors that i know work fine but i do not even get anything on the screen not even the proliant screens on initial boot , let alone the linux boot sequence.

Has anybody seen this before, what else can i check for and what can i do get it back up and running?

Regards
