

Re: [SLE] Real Player

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/SuSE/2003-10/3715.html>

From: Donald Henson (wepin_at_wepin.com)

Date: 10/31/03

To: SuSE Linux E <suse-linux-e@suse.com>

Date: Fri, 31 Oct 2003 06:45:22 -0700

On Fri, 2003-10-31 at 06:14, LinuxWorld999 wrote:

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: "Donald Henson" <wepin@wepin.com>

> To: "SuSE Linux E" <suse-linux-e@suse.com>

> Sent: Friday, October 31, 2003 1:03 PM

> Subject: Re: [SLE] Real Player

>

>

>> On Fri, 2003-10-31 at 01:16, LinuxWorld999 wrote:

>>

>>> ----- Original Message -----

>>> From: "Donald Henson" <wepin@wepin.com>

>>> To: "SuSE Linux E" <suse-linux-e@suse.com>

>>> Sent: Thursday, October 30, 2003 10:42 PM

>>> Subject: [SLE] Real Player

>>>

>>>

>>>> I give up. How do you make Real Player 8 play a CD?

>>>>

>>>> Don Henson

>>>>

>>>>

>>>> Use XMMS :)

>>>>

>>>>

>>>> If only the solution was that easy. I can't get xmms to play a CD >>>> either. :-(

>>>>

>>>> Don Henson

>>>>

>>>>

>>>>

> If the "hardware info" option is run from the hardware section of YaST2, > click on the CDROM or DVD device information and make a note of the device > name. It will be "/dev/sr0" or "/dev/dvd" or similar. Then run XMMS, click > on the eject button. On the source button, type in the device id as shown

SuSE: Re: [SLE] Real Player

- > above, making sure an audio CD is in the drive. Click on the "OK" button
- > and the CD should start to play.
- >
- > HTH.
- >
- > LW999
- >

You must be using a different version of xmms. The only button that might be an eject button brings up a file dialog. I've tried putting /dev/hdd (that's what YaST says it's name is) but that doesn't work. Do I need some kind of plug-in to play audio CDs?

Don Henson