Hello Peter.

Thank you for your reply.

Sorry, but I am a bit confused!

Control Panel > Appearance... > Fonts

Changes the default fonts for the whole of KDE.

What I think is missing, (well I can't find it) is a tab in Quanta so that a variety of fonts can be used in its HTML output – Serif, Sans, Script, Fancy, and so on. I can't find any way to be able to select these various fonts as the page is being made up, apart from manually typing their names into the editor with the appropriate tags.

Cheers

Keith
