

Re: [SLE] *&^^%$ Resmgr again

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/SuSE/2005-03/0604.html>

---

From: Marcus Meissner (meissner\_at\_suse.de)

Date: 03/04/05

Date: Fri, 4 Mar 2005 16:50:12 +0100
To: Bruce Marshall <bmarsh@bmarsh.com>

> So I have done a reboot of the machine, and done the normal login. The resmgr > list results look more normal. However, even with a fresh boot, going into > digikam with the camera previously defined to it still does not allow the > camera to connect.
>
> I can then go into the 'add camera' dialog, remove the S1, re-detect it, get > out of the dialog, and I am good for that one session. The camera will > connect.
>
> The camera is good only for the session where digikam is allowed to > auto-detect it.
>
> Sounds like it might be a problem with digikam (or gphoto2) to me.

Yes, it is. It originates from the multiple USB device support in gphoto2.

I hope I fixed that for later gphoto2 versions.

Ciao, Marcus

---

- application/pgp-signature attachment: stored