Ok, an update and I'm more puzzled than ever. I will try the renaming but for now how about this? Last night I went into root mode (GUI). I opened Firefox (the updated one) it opened fine. I then logged off and logged back in as normal user (there is only root and 1 normal user on the PC). I then tried opening Firefox again – remember it flashed open and died prior to opening it under root. Would you believe Firefox opened fine and worked fully. So, it would appear that if I firstly log in as root then open Firefox then log out again

SuSE: Re: [SLE] Firefox, fixed and broken again.... :-(

it will work for a normal user.

When it does work I am having no problems with bookmarks or links or anything. Oh, I did delete the old Firefox at one point prior to putting the latest one on.
