Maura,

The OOO version that came with SuSE 9.3, should be fine enough, especially if you're not familiar with installing tar packages. The version that I have is 1.9.125-4.1.

Also in Yast Online Update is an option to start a script to download and install Microsoft fonts. You may have installed them already. If not then, open up Yast to do an online update and look for the patch called "Download Microsoft® TrueType Core Fonts". You will download and install these fonts into your system. They will be immediately accessible to OpenOffice the next time you open it up. If your group is using other fonts that are not included in that download, search for them online, then let us know if you need help with the install.

Read Carl's post for other suggestions.

Let us know if you need help beyond that.

Take Care,

Bernd
