Hey there SuSE people,

Have a strange and inconsistent thing that happens. Doesn't seem to cause any problems but sure like to know why it happens.

My computer is named "EasyStreet". 3 out of 4 times when I boot up and access my Konsole it is identified as EasyStreet. On other occasions the Konsole comes up as "private". Can su to root and still comes up and the Konsole is still identified as "private".

Everything works like it is supposed to. ??????? Where/why is this coming from. What is determining how the Konsole should start/run as "private" vs "Easystreet"

I do have a group named private that only I as the exclusive user can access. Don't understand why that would change things/make a difference though. Not a big deal but certainly is strange.

Trying again since nobody replied the first time. Has nobody else seen this strange occurrence, or if not, any ideas why/how this could happen? Has to be a very basic thing.
