openSUSE 10.2, 2.6.18.8-0.3-default x86_64
KDE 3.5.5 "release 45.5"

When Konqueror opens a folder there's a short animation of an expanding box drawn with a dashed line superimposed over the icon. On most systems it plays too fast for most people to really see it. On this particular system it plays in slow motion. I can see the box and watch it expanding in discrete steps --- tick, tick, tick --- before the folder opens.

It does not matter if the folder has 0 files in it or a hundred files. It still takes just as long to open. (three or four seconds.) Is there something I can do to control this animation, or even just turn it off?

Thanks, Ken.
