Have you checked "Personal Settings / Peripherals / Touchpad"?
I don't have Synaptics installed in this machine, but there may be a setting there that helps you.

Do you mean from the KDE Control Center?

Yes. I double-checked and it is called Touch Pad, under Peripherals.

I don't see it there and I'm using a laptop with a touchpad.

In 10.1 you had to install the package "ksynaptics" for this option to appear in the menu.
