

Re: Has Ubuntu Replaced Windows on Your Box?

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/Ubuntu/2006-09/msg01683.html>

- From: Kenny Kant <kenny.kant@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sat, 16 Sep 2006 17:57:32 -0500
-

Its very sad that you have to act like this in a place meant to help others. Yelling about a lack of feature and also taking it step further and attacking is sick.

Kenny

On Sat, 2006-09-16 at 18:29 +0100, pastafarian wrote:

Sorry to say Ubuntu & Linux will always be the destined piece-of-shit for not handling acpi suspend/hibernate decently.

Why the heck is it so difficult for you people to implement -something you want to become mainstream- ?

YOU THINK PEOPLE ALWAYS WANT TO LEAVE THEIR COMPUTERS ON, CONSUMING AT THE LEAST 150W ??

I can understand third-party apps not working, like video conferencing, because they were not interested in supporting linux..but for something that should have been built in to the core OS, this is disheartening.

-I wasted too many months giving Ubuntu a chance, a chance to get away from Windows.-

Too many repos, too much crap in those repos, too many steps to do one goddamn thing.

WE DONT NEED TO PROGRAM A COMPUTER FOR EVERYDAY USE, WE NEED IT TO DO WORK FOR US.

Until you linux 'scientists' get that into your heads, you will be stuck in the server market.

DONT EVEN VENTURE INTO DESKTOPS UNTIL YOU GET SOME BASICS FOR AVERAGE USERS RIGHT.

Its back to Windows for their awesome suspend support, should never have thought linux was up to the mark :(

Re: Has Ubuntu Replaced Windows on Your Box?

--
pastafarian

--
ubuntu-users mailing list
ubuntu-users@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx
<https://lists.ubuntu.com/mailman/listinfo/ubuntu-users>