I would like to know how many computers are running under some form of Linux in North America.

I have not been able to discover that number with any combination of words that I can think of to put into a search engine.

Would any of you gentlemen be able to point me to a source for a reasonably reliable estimate?

Thanks in advance.

Thirteen that I know of personally. Really – there are no 'reliable' statistics – how could there be?

You can be sure Microsoft will downplay any statistics they find on Linux.
